AREA NOTES: Underground installation is accessed from outside by a battered metal door hanging on giant hinges. A metal stair leads down.

Any attempt to enter a command requires a d10 roll. 1-5 = Success. 6-10 = Failure.

Failure will result in the following Message: “Tresspass Protocol Initiated. Black Angel Plan 9: Platform will launch targeting this Installation in 1 hour. Goodbye, Tiberium.” At this stage, everyone is doomed! Nothing will alter the protocol.

Success Choice: Launch: displays global map for target coordinates. Disarm. Message: “Black Angel Disarmed” Self Destruct Message:

“Self Destruct Sequence Enabled. Platform will self-destruct in 10...9...8...7...6...5...4...3...2...ONE.”

Terminal will show the satellite explode into space debris viewed by companion monitor satellite, which will blink out shortly thereafter as it falls from orbit, its link with Black Angel gone.

On both maps it will be important to ascertain “marching order”, asking players. Point man is in danger of the sinkhole in Cave marked X. Referee should describe smaller tunnels on the opposite wall to draw the crew inside. In the service tunnel marked 4 on the installation map, the Mordrok will attack the rear guard. Again, the oil slick is a distraction.

Using Search: Successful use of Search will not reveal the sinkhole. It will reveal the Rayweed in Cave 5 and the Mordrok in Cave 3 and the one in the service tunnel in the installation if used by anyone entering before moving in. If seen and attacked, the Mordrok attacks.

This scenario is left vague and open to referee desires. The true nature of Tiberium the Monk is left to him or her to decide. Is Tiberium a good soul? A mystic and member of an esoteric order of guardians and lore keepers? Is he an android? Is he neutral, or was everything a trick to get the crew to launch the Black Angel? Use any of these variants or make one up.

T. A. S. K. RESOLUTION SYSTEM

T. = TALK Used to engage in conversation, persuade, communicate instructions, etc.

A. = ATTACK Any melee or missile attack. Tactical movement and range are not used in this game.

S. = SEARCH Used to examine items, areas, etc.

K. = KNOW Used to check character knowledge, lore, technical expertise, etc. Cannot sense motives or lies.

When a T.A.S.K. action is used, roll d10. If = to score or higher, success. A failed Know negates any future attempt by that character, as does Search and Talk.
